"Exercise is king. Nutrition is queen. Put them together and you've got a kingdom." -Jack LaLanne

Nutrition Breakdown

The meal plan in this cleanse is composed of 4 components.

- I. Warm Lemon Water (3 cups daily)
- II. Morning Smoothie
- III. Lunch Salad
- IV. Hi-protein Dinner

I. Warm Lemon Water

If you drink lemon water on a regular basis, it will decrease the acidity in your body, which is where disease states occur. It removes uric acid in your joints, which is one of the main causes of inflammation.

Lemon juice not only encourages healthy digestion by loosening toxins in your digestive tract, it helps to relieve symptoms of indigestion such as heartburn, burping, and bloating. And lemons contain pectin fiber, which assists in fighting hunger cravings.

II. Morning Smoothie

Breakfast is the most challenging meal to get right. Between all the fattening options at Starbucks and your morning rush to work, making sure you get all your fat burning nutrients in is not likely to happen.

Until now. Smoothies pack a nutrient punch, they're quick and easy to prepare and they taste delicious. I've programmed a breakfast smoothie every day for the next 7 days. I have provided you my favorite recipes and you may choose to try a different smoothie each day or stick to your favorites.

III. Lunch Salad

Do feel the after lunch energy crash? This is usually caused from eating a lunch high in processed carbohydrates (breads, pastas, crackers). Sticking to fresh veggies and protein will not only give you extra energy to get through the second half of the day, you'll also feel lighter and thinner.

Like your morning smoothies, I've provided you with my favorite salad recipes that you can experiment with or stick to the ones you like best.

Optional add-ons: If you have a bigger appetite, you may add in extra protein and healthy fats to your salad (see the list of healthy foods).

IV. Hi-Protein Dinner

Get ready for your favorite part of the cleanse - dinner time! Dinner time is where you get to relax and enjoy a delicious healthy meal. Each of the recipes are high in protein and designed to switch on your bodies fat burning engines while you sleep. Pretty cool huh? If you're hungry for seconds, feel free to have extra servings, without the guilt. But do NOT add in additional carbs that aren't listed.

Mind & Body Preparation

Besides following the cleanse nutrition protocol, we are going to be preparing your body and mind with these 2 components:

- I. Daily Exercise & Stretching
- II. Gratitude Journaling

I. Daily Exercise & Stretching

Since I want you to focus most of your energy on the nutritional part of this program, your daily exercise prescription is easy and enjoyable.

Every day, you will be required to walk for 30 minutes in the morning before going to work... Yes, I said walk, not run. Whether you're currently exercising or not, you will still just walk.

There's 3 important reasons I want you to walk first thing in the morning:

1. Take back your mornings. You probably start your day with STRESS. Taking the first 45-60 minutes of each day for yourself will increase your mood, circulation and dramatically cut down on the stress you'll experience at work. Decide RIGHT NOW to take your mornings back and begin to change the daily stress cycle.
2. Rev up your metabolism. Sitting at your desk for 8 hours doesn't burn much fat. But starting your day with exercise does. Studies show that people that got in as little as 20 minutes of exercise first thing in the morning kept weight off longer than those that exercised in the evening.
3. Develop success habits. The #1 reason I hear for people not reaching their goals is that they lack motivation. Motivation isn't a feeling. Motivation is about creating automatic positive habits - like brushing your teeth. Simply by waking up a little earlier than you used to and going for a simple walk, will begin to program your brain to instill the habit of moving. Once the habit is developed, the hard part is behind you.

II. Gratitude Journaling

Chances are right now, you're not very happy with your body... I totally understand it. But did you know your negative feelings toward your body, regardless of it's shape, can actually be sabotaging your success? It's true. My ultimate goal for you is that you find energy, strength and happiness in the next 30 days.

And the secret is, you don't have to wait to be a certain size or lose a certain number of pounds to begin to feel happy and fulfilled.

"Exercise is king. Nutrition is queen. Put them together and you've got a kingdom." -Jack LaLanne

Happiness is an area I do a lot of studying in and I've found that there's only 3 reasons as to why we feel unhappy.

1. Our expectations do not match our reality. This is such a simple concept, it's strange how much pain it brings us. Have you ever experienced thoughts of not having achieved enough in your life? Usually these thoughts creep up on our birthdays or some other milestone.

When we begin to compare our lives with some unachieved standard, the only possible way to feel is sad, regretful and resentment. And when you feel down on yourself, motivation to clean up your eating and stick to your workout plan is the last thing you'll feel like doing.

But here's the biggest shocker of all - our brains are so complex that as a survival mechanism, to keep us away of danger and pain, your brain will actually, subconsciously, drive you towards food, substances and activities that will numb your feelings. And those things are generally junk food, alcohol, drugs, TV, gambling and other unhealthy patterns; making it nearly impossible to stick to any healthy plan.

So the next time you begin to beat yourself up about not being or having enough, remember to:

- Be kind and fair to yourself
- Be grateful for the awesome things you already possess

2. We make the problem worse than it is. There's problems... and then there's PROBLEMS! It's unfortunate that it takes a major tragedy or life-scary to remind us of what's really important to us. Is your unhappiness being driven by making your mole hills into mountains?

Think about it. If tomorrow, your doctor told you, you only have 6 months to live; how quickly would the issues causing you stress go away?

It's my guess 80-90% of your worries would automatically disappear into thin air and your focus would go to the things that truly matter: your family, your kids, your legacy.

Don't wait until it's too late. Put your mole hills into perspective and focus on the good stuff.

3. We forgot to be grateful. One of my mantra's I use when I need to change my mental state is: "All the strength/love/happiness I need is inside me NOW!" I repeat this out loud over and over again until I remember it's true. I've had the privilege of talking with a good number of millionaires over the years and a questions I always ask is, "Is the sacrifice of time, health and relationships worth the money?"

"Exercise is king. Nutrition is queen. Put them together and you've got a kingdom." -Jack LaLanne

And the most typical response is NO. The most common reasons are: money does not and cannot buy back lost time, good health and relationships with your family.

Everything you need to feel happy, to feel confident, to feel strong... is already within you.

Even if you have 50 pounds to lose, find happiness in your daily progress NOW, even if it is in baby steps at times. This way you won't have to wait til "someday" to experience the joy at the end of the rainbow :)
